The Servant of Two Masters

by Carlo Goldoni

A hilarious adaptation by Dorothy Louise

When the rascally Truffaldino, gets himself hired as a manservant to two different people at the same time, the farcical complications in this fast-paced Commedia dell'Arte masterpiece begin.

One of his 'masters' is in fact a lady in disguise, the other is her lover, but our ever hungry "hero" is unaware of this. The "lover", has killed his beloved's brother and fleeing Turin, finds himself at an Inn in Venice. His beloved meanwhile, dressed as her dead brother, ends up unwittingly in said same Inn! The ever crafty Truffaldino seizes the opportunity to gain yet more food and decides that he can just as easily serve two masters as one. Confused yet? Wait there's more!

In a classic comic case of mistaken identities, our disguised heroine accidentally is faced with her brother's fiancé, who's father is now determined the wedding should go ahead without delay. Will the unlucky lovers find one another? Will the father get his money? Will Truffaldino survive his plotting and get all his dinners?

Don't miss this wonderfully vibrant, colourful, classic romp guaranteed to delight one and all whatever the age. Why not bring a rug and picnic and settle down to a lovely evening of great entertainment.

Performances will be held in Trinity Theatre gardens, inside if wet.
